

Ezra Fischer

ezrafischer@gmail.com • Cambridge, MA 02140

Experience

Somerville High School

2016 – Now

Intern

- Lead teacher for a 10th grade U.S. History II and 11th and 12th grade American Government & Politics class
- Developed original curriculum or modified existing lessons to meet the needs of a differentiated classroom

Fish for Metrics, an independent Salesforce consultancy

2014 – 2016

Founder and consultant

- Rapidly learned clients' businesses to create and develop more efficient Salesforce processes
- Designed, produced, and delivered sustainable, action oriented reporting from Salesforce data

Return Path, an email intelligence company

2007 – 2014

Director of Salesforce Platform/Business Intelligence & Operations

2010 – 2014

- Respected senior leader of a rapidly growing tech startup with influence on strategy, vision, and operations
- Directed the success of a 300+ license Salesforce instance that housed 30+ essential business processes
- Created and led a cross-functional governance team for coordinating strategic business operations initiatives
- Hired and managed a geographically dispersed team and maintained engagement with team values and mission
- Polished communication skills by listening to and conveying concepts or practical instructions to team members and by working with stakeholders and end users to understand business requirements and underlying needs

Business Operations Analyst

2008 – 2010

- Performed a variety of analytical work as an internal consultant reporting to the co-founder and CFO
- Leveraged data manipulation and presentation skills producing materials for board of directors meetings

Dear Sports Fan, an advice column for people who live with people who live for sports

2011 – Now

Founder and Editor-in-Chief

- Wrote over 1,000 short essays explaining and exploring sports that have been viewed more than 950,000 times
- Designed, published, maintained, and promoted an entrepreneurial web-based project

U.S. 1 Publications, publisher of a free weekly business and arts newspaper

2004 – 2006

Production Manager

- Led the organization's transition from semi to fully digital by demonstrating technical proficiency and convincing the more tradition-bound editorial staff that .pdfs were as reliable and culturally acceptable as wax machines
- Produced editorial, advertising, and cover layout, copy edited articles, and wrote headlines, pull-quotes, and photo captions under tight deadlines for a vibrant, 19,000 copy weekly newspaper

Education

Graduate School of Arts & Sciences, Tufts University

2016 – Now

- Will graduate in May 2017 with a Master of Arts and Teaching degree in Education
- Possess a Massachusetts Preliminary Teacher License. Will have SEI endorsement and SPED certification by May
- Member of the Urban Teacher Training Collaborative

Rutgers College, Rutgers University

2000 – 2004

- Graduated Highest Honors, Bachelor of Arts, History and Political Science (GPA 3.9)
- Four year member of General Honors program, Druskin scholar, and Dean's List
- 2004 Henry Rutgers Scholar, recipient of Marryott Research award & Ceil Parker Lawson prize for senior thesis, "The Corpses in the Copse or Murder, Marriage, and Modernity: Understanding the Hall-Mills Case"

Interests

Reading old detective novels
Folk dancing

Singing in a world music choir
Playing recreational sports

Creating data visualizations
Taking and editing photos